ABOUT ERIN CLARK

Erin has pursued her passion for creating since she was a child. Her diverse exploration of art mediums for expression includes photography, oil painting, woodblock printing, etching, photogravure, palladium printing and collage.

Erin has also created a new line of jewelry called Giggle Jewels. She has an intuitive feeling for form and a passion for color, choosing each medium for it's unique characteristics.

Erin is a native of New York, but her work is inspired by frequent world travel. She has lived in New York, Santa Fe and Africa, which have all greatly influenced her sense of color and form.

Erin received her formal fine art education at S.U.N.Y. College at Purchase, NY and her graduate degree from Manhattanville College in New York. She has taught elementary, high school and college art programs and has a passion for the artwork created by all children. She is known to repaint the walls of her home and rearrange artwork and furniture often. Luckily, her family has become accustomed to creative and spontaneous decorating.
