ABOUT STAN MYERS

Myers is primarily known for his realistic depictions of the structures, lakes, nature and people experienced in travels near and far. His West Michigan shoreline scenes in watercolor showcase his mastery of the medium and his attention to detail.

Ever since childhood while on family vacations, Stan would be captivated by special places that left a lasting impression on him. Today as he travels down a local country road or adventures to a far away destination, when he discovers an inspirational sight, his creative soul longs to somehow recapture the experience through a painting. It may be the subject, the colors, or the light; but likely it's all of these working together that stirred his heart
